Conference Adopts Four Power Treaty

Discards Anglo-Japanese Agreement—Guarantees Security To Pacific Holdings.

By COL. FREDERICK PALMER

Colonel Palmer, the Dean of American War Correspondents, has been through every war of importance from the Greco-Turkish War of 1897 down to date. 1914-16 he was the accredited American Correspondent with the British Army; 1917-18 Lt.-Colonel A. E. F. Author "America in France," "The Last Shot," "The Folly of Nations," (1921), etc.

Washington, December 9th. It has been a week of progress whose result in one respect may be announced after this is written in the acceptance of the Four Power Treaty by Britain, America and Japan. This treaty is to take the place of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance in which either nation was to come to the aid of the other upon the other's demand in the event of war. Britain made the alliance as a counter against Russia when Russia, in the days of her Imperial Might, threatened China and British India. She renewed it afterward against Germany; and in the late war Japan came to her aid against Germany. It had a year yet to run when this conference met.

The proposed Four Power Treaty, which is to take its place, does not require that of any one of the Four Nations should come to the aid of one or two or all of the others in case of war, a contingency which seems

Indians Easily Win First Game

Regulars Led At First Half By
Score of 15-2.

The first basketball game played on the girls' new gym court resulted in a 22-15 victory of William and Mary over Fortress Monroe on December 9.

Coach Driver started his regulars, and when they retired at the close of the first half, the Indians were leading 15 to 2. Cooke, with three baskets, and Jones with two goals to his credit, although playing a guard position starred for the college.

The coach sent in a string of substitutes in the second half, and the soldiers also changed their line-up. The artillery men found the range and began to creep up on the Indians. Then it was that the scrubs were replaced by the regulars, and the game soon ended.

Due to very close guarding, neither team was able to display much ability in passing the ball. The Indians' regulars, however, showed in their first workout that they know the value of teamwork. "Chet" Pierce

ALUMNI IS ASKED TO GIVE DOLLAR TO THE MACE FUND

Letter Sent Out Explaining Mace And Its Use;
Asking Alumni To Subscribe
Their "Kopeck."

The letter printed below has been sent to all alumni asking them to send in their dollar for the Mace Fund, which will be given William and Mary as a birthday present February 8, 1922, on the occasion of Alma Mater's two hundred and twenty-ninth anniversary. The letter is self-explanatory.

As yet there are some students who have not subscribed their dollar. They should "come across" before they go home for the holidays. The subscription might be a Christmas present to the Mace Fund to buy a birthday present for the college.

The campaign is unique in that only one subscription will be received from one person. It is the wish of the Committee to get as many people as possible to give one dollar, making the gift more a community one than if the money were raised among a few persons. It's not a campaign asking you to "give till it hurts." It's more a "widow's mite" campaign.

The letter follows:

December 5, 1921.

Dear Fellow Alumnus:

In the new day that has come to the College of William and Mary, with her largely increased enrollment and broadened horizon, the need has been felt of something concrete, owned in common by all former, present, and future students, which shall portray and symbolize the unique significance of the College, and show the several historical phases through which she has passed in the more than two and a quarter centuries of her existence. After mature deliberation, the undersigned committee, with the approval of President Chandler, has reached the conclusion that this ideal will be most happily embodied in an official mace, to be presented to the College on the forthcoming observance of her two hundred and twenty-ninth birthday.

The mace will be more than three feet in height, and constructed of solid silver. It may be briefly described as follows: It is surmounted by an American eagle, symbolizing liberty and freedom of thought. This eagle stands on a sheaf of arrows, symbolizing the thirteen original States. The arrows rest upon a sphere, symbolizing unity. Beneath this sphere is a member bearing on its obverse in enamel the arms of the College of William and Mary, in proper colors, and on its reverse the inscription, Collegium Gulielmi et Mariae in Virginia, Regia Charta Conditum, Anno Domini MDCXCIII. Beneath this member is another bearing the coats of arms of the several Chancellors, and, also, in a lower row, seven early Virginia seals, including that of the London Company. In an appropriate place will also appear the names of six of the most eminent men intimately connected with the early history of the College, such as Sir Christopher Wren, George Wythe, and Louis XVI. Beneath this is another member bearing the en-

Students Organize George Wythe Club

Announcement has been made of the organization of the George Wythe Law Club, composed of the professors of government, law, and citizenship, and law students, or those enrolled in the pre-legal department.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Prof. Oscar L. Shewmate, of Richmond Road, Monday night. At that time Prof. Shewmate will address the club on the life of George Wythe, distinguished jurist, lawyer, scholar, and Virginian. Wythe was the first teacher of law at the college. He began his duties as instructor in 1779.

Dramatic Club to Present "Clarence"

It has been definitely decided by the Dramatic Club that they will give as their play of the year "Clarence," by Booth Tarkington. No assignments of parts have yet been made—the try-outs are to be held next week. There are ten characters in the play, and attempt is being made to give one or two college credits to each member selected to the part.

The following officers for the year were elected by the club at one of its first meetings: President, Charles Duke; vice-president, Winifred Tinsley; secretary, Josephine Tenschoten; and treasurer, J. G. Polard. Prof. Edward M. Gwathmey is the director for this year.

Indians, With Good Material,
Bid Fair To Better Last Year's Record.

The second basketball contest to be played by William and Mary before the Christmas holidays will be staged here on Friday against Newport News Shipyard.

As the season progresses, the Indians are getting in better condition. In their initial start against Fort Monroe, the William and Mary basketballers, as well as their opponents, showed lack of wind. Daily practice will remedy the situation.

Although Coach Driver has all of last year's regulars, Pierce, Cooke, Harwood, Young and Jones, at his command, and also Turner Henley, varsity forward in 1919, he is giving the new material consideration, and will center his attention on the freshmen and scrubs in the two weeks remaining before the Christmas holidays.

The regulars who played last year on the small gymnasium court are finding it a real task to familiarize themselves with the new, larger court, and as a result no large scores are anticipated during the early stages of the campaign. Rather, the Indians should improve as they master the new court, and become accustomed to making longer passes.

William and Mary ended its season last year by winning seven straight games, as follows: W. & M., 28; Newport News Shipyard, 18. W. & M., 53; Randolph-Macon College, 26. W. & M., 41; Camp Eustis, 17. W. & M., 45; University of Richmond, 20. W. & M., 36; Medical College of Virginia, 26. W. & M., 28; Randolph-Macon College, 14. W. & M., 38; University of Richmond, 23.

Interesting Talk At Vesper Sunday

Dr. Robins, of Richmond, Addresses Students On Opportunities In the Medical World.

Dr. Charles O. Robins, one of the leading surgeons of Richmond, addressed the students of the College of William and Mary, and people of Williamsburg, in the college chapel Sunday afternoon at vesper services. Dr. Robins' subject was "The Opportunities in Medicine."

Each winter the college arranges a series of vesper lectures by distinguished men and women in various fields of work on the opportunities in their respective activities, such as Law, Medicine, Journalism, Teaching, and Social Work.

Dr. Robins traced the history of medicine from the old period of prescriptions for all ailments to the

Arranging Debate With Penn State

Contest May Be Staged With Pennsylvania, and Univer- sity of Vermont.

The Secretary of the Debate Council is now arranging several intercollegiate debates for the coming year. He has already received challenges from University of Vermont, Roanoke College, Hampden-Sidney College, and Randolph-Macon College. The annual debate between Richmond University and William and Mary College will be held this year. Last year, for the first time in the history of the College, two women students won the debate between Richmond and William and Mary. We must repeat the same victory this year.

Last year Penn State Challenged William and Mary for debate, but the schedule of the college would not permit it to be held. However, William and Mary may have a joint debate with Penn State this year. There is no reason why the college should not strive just as hard to send out a representative debating team as a good baseball team. It is deemed very appropriate to engage some debates with the Northern colleges and universities. The money allotted to the literary societies could be spent in no more profitable way than in sending out good debating teams against some of the colleges of the North, it is pointed out.

Chi Beta Phis Hold Initiation on Dec. 7

The Beta Chapter of the Chi Beta Phi Scientific Fraternity held its regular meeting on December 7. The regular program of the meeting was done away with for the long and tortuous process of initiation took a great deal of time.

The following men stood the test and were duly initiated:

J. D. Burfoot, Jr., J. S. Duff, Reginald Bailey, F. B. West, R. E. Kennard, Floyd Berl, E. H. Pierce, William Dick, C. D. Jones, W. F. Young.

Floyd Berl was successful in explaining the "Synthesis of Love," but West had some difficulty in expatiating on the "Polarity of the Polar Bear." All new men agreed that the initiation was indeed a "shock" to them.

After the "heavy work" all indulged in refreshments and smokes.

Philomatheans Held Interesting Meeting

The Philmathean Literary Society held Saturday night what was declared one of the best programs this year, or even for the past year or two.

A number of members were absent, but there was an intense interest in the program, especially the debate. The question, like most of those selected this year, was one of vital importance to the citizens of Virginia.

The program follows:

Reading, W. J. Holliday, "Casey At The Bat."

Declamation, E. B. Moffitt, "How They Brought The Good News From Ghent To Aix."

Oration, F. F. Wilshin, "The Open Door."

Debate: "Resolved: That The Virginia Pilot's Association is injurious to the best development of Hampton Roads."

Affirmative: G. A. Downing, C. R. Ball.

Negative: S. F. Latham, E. C. Johnson.

The negative won the debate. All of the speakers were good; but Mr. Johnson deserves special mention, and shows qualities, which, if developed, will greatly help William and Mary in the intercollegiate debates.

It is interesting to know that the Philmathean Society has not held a single meeting this year without initiating at least two new members; and, that in only one instance has any member failed to appear on the program when called upon to do so.

Bar The Migratory Athlete In S. I. A. C.

Conference Also Passes the Freshman Rule. — Students May Play Summer Baseball.

Friday, December 2, witnessed the first session of the two-day conference held at the Piedmont Hotel by the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference. As its name implies, this association is composed of practically all the leading colleges in the South, thirteen in number, among them Tech and Georgia. This was the second meeting. One of the main objects was to complete the details of organization and to establish the association on a firm footing.

The conference has for its purpose the advancement of athletics in the South, the promotion of friendly intercollegiate competition and the formulating and establishment of definite rules which will govern all members of the conference. These rules will place collegiate athletics on a high plane and will do a great deal towards obliterating the objectionable features.

One of the most important steps taken is seen in the migratory clause, which states that no athlete who has played on one college team will ever be allowed to play on a team of any member of the Conference. This action is a radical departure from former customs. The one-year rule was also passed. This rule prohibits a player from engaging in intercollegiate ate sports until after one year's residence in college, with a satisfactory scholastic record. Colleges which are not members of the Conference, which play Conference teams, will be required to comply with the eligibility rules.

Under the head of baseball, it was decided to allow players to participate in summer baseball, but they will not be allowed to play on professional teams.

No training table can be maintained by any member of the Conference. Freshman teams were discussed, and in the future these teams will be composed entirely of members of the Freshman class, no member being eligible for more than one year.

Coach Dobson's Proposal Meets With General Favor Among Smaller Schools—No Meeting As Yet Called.

University of Richmond, Dec. 11.—Outlook for the success of the Intercollegiate Athletic Association of Virginia and North Carolina colleges, not in the Southern Association or universities, seems very bright at this time in view of the favorable replies received by Athletic Director Frank D. Dobson, of the University of Richmond, who is father of the project. Mr. Dobson has at this time been assured by the twelve college presidents addressed that they will give the conference apropos to the formation of an association their hearty co-operation.

In fact it was to the college presidents that Coach Dobson sent his letters, the matters to be considered being related to the offices of the presidents and the athletic heads of the various schools playing their roles later. The schools included in this organization when formed will be the Randolph-Macon, Lynchburg, Hampden-Sidney, William and Mary, Emory and Henry and University of Richmond, in Virginia, and Davidson, Wake Forest, Elon, Guilford, and Trinity in North Carolina.

While these two groups of schools are playing more interstate games now in all branches than at any previous time, the new organization has not in view to stage anything like championship competition unless in track and basketball and possibly baseball. However, this is not the chief purpose of the agreement between the respective colleges but to stimulate a spirit of concord and to regulate eligibility of athletes for the good of collegiate athletics.

With the plans for the conference abandoned to where the college presidents have agreed to meet to give consideration to the plans, Mr. Dobson is now turning his attention to the selection of a place for the meeting and a time suitable to all concerned. That will be sometime after the holidays and probably in early January. A time will be suggested to the parties to the idea and then an official call made.

No movement among this class of colleges in the two States has had such possibilities for real constructive activities as the one now pending. It will in a way take the place of the old Eastern Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Association for such schools as University of Richmond, Roanoke College, Lynchburg College, William and Mary, Hampden-Sidney and Randolph-Macon, but for the other institutions such a move is entirely new.

Driver Announces Basketball Games

J. G. Driver, professor of physical education and coach of basketball, announces the basketball schedule of William and Mary College, as follows:

December 16—Newport News Shipyard; home.

January 10—George Washington; Washington, D. C.

January 11—Gallaudet College; Washington, D. C.

January 14—Bridgewater College; home.

January 17—Randolph-Macon College; Ashland.

January 18—University of Virginia; Charlottesville.

January 23—Union Theological Seminary; home.

January 26—Hampden-Sidney College; home.

February 4—University of Richmond; home.

February 11—Randolph-Macon College; home.

February 11—University of Richmond; Richmond.

February 22—Loyola College; home.

As this schedule shows, the Indians will play seven games at home and five abroad. In addition, games with Virginia Polytechnic Institute and Clemson College at Williamsburg are pending.

Last year the Indians' quint played eleven games, winning eight and losing three games, and finishing the season with seven consecutive victories. "Flicky" Harwood is manager of basketball.

Fordham's Nine To Be Met In New York City

Announcement has been made that a baseball game has been arranged between Fordham College and William and Mary, in New York City on May 3. This gives the Indians nine games on their northern jaunt, as follows: April 24, University of Virginia; April 25, St. John's College; April 26, United States Naval Academy; April 27, Johns Hopkins University; April 28, University of Delaware; April 29, Lafayette College; May 1, New York University; May 2, City College of New York; May 3, Fordham College.

This is the heaviest schedule, with the hardest games, that an Indian nine has ever arranged, it is believed. However, prospects for a successful team are bright; although the strong right arm of Dewey Marshall will be sadly missed.

Indians Battle Spiders Thrice

Three baseball games will be played with University of Richmond next spring, according to announcement made by James G. Driver, head of athletics.

On Saturday before Easter, William and Mary and Spiders will clash in Newport News. Easter Monday will find these same institutions battling on the diamond in Norfolk. The third game will be played in Williamsburg.

In 1923 the first two games will be played in Newport News and Norfolk and the third contest in Richmond. The Spiders consented to play the third game in Williamsburg next year. Each year the third game between the colleges will be alternated between Richmond and Williamsburg.

Levy Stops by the College On Way Home

Speedy Half Will Return To College Again In February.

Joyce Levy came back to the campus of William and Mary College Monday, one month from the day he was rushed to Elizabeth Buxton Hospital, Newport News, after being injured in a football game here on November 12.

Levy had a hemorrhage, which so weakened him that a transfusion was necessary before surgeons could operate. His brother, Lionel, also a football player, and Coach Bill Fincher gave their blood to save Joyce's life. Levy's spleen was removed three weeks ago. He rallied after a second transfusion, and was released from the hospital Sunday.

A warm welcome awaited Joyce upon his return to college. He will stay a few days and then go to his home in Birmingham, Ala., to rest before returning to college for the second term, beginning in February.

Levy's critical illness occurred a week before the Thanksgiving football game with University of Richmond. He proved the fastest and best backfield man on the squad. Whether he will ever play football again is a matter students and gridironists are debating.

Harwood To Lead Eleven Next Fall

Big End Elected Captain Recently, Is Only Four-Letter Man In School.

The football letter men of William and Mary College have selected Wallace ("Flicky") Harwood, of Newport News, to be captain of next year's eleven.

Harwood has played stellar football at end for two seasons, but each year has been injured. He was calling signals for the Indians during the season just closed, when hurt in the Wake Forest contest in Norfolk. A severe blow on the knee prevented him from playing in the four remaining games.

Last year the big end made letters in football, basketball, baseball, and track, and is now the only four-letter man in college. With all of this year's squad, save Captain Wilson, who graduates, returning next season, the gridiron prospects appear bright.

The athletic council, after mature deliberation, awarded nineteen football letters. The granting of such a large number of monograms was due to Coach Fincher's method of playing his men. There were two sets of backfield men, and few men were deemed regulars.

Indians Play H.-S. And U. of R. Next Year

Games With Old Rivals Have Already Been Arranged For 1922.

Although the 1922 football schedule has not been completed, it is known that University of Richmond will be played again on Thanksgiving Day, and Hampden-Sidney College early in October. Both contests, in all likelihood, will be played in Richmond.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

One week from today the Christmas holidays begin. To each and everyone of the students, college officials, and employees, members of the faculty, alumni and friends, the Flat Hat conveys its best wishes for a merry, merry Christmas and a happy, successful New Year.

This will be the eleventh and last number of the year 1921.

In January we hope to announce a few things that will be of interest to the students, and will aid materially in the improvement of the Flat Hat.

It's about press time, so—Merry Christmas and Happy New Year again.

VA.-N. C. I. A. A.

The Flat Hat heartily commends the move taken by Coach Frank Dobson, of Richmond, in suggesting that a conference of the colleges of Virginia and North Carolina be held shortly after the Christmas holidays to discuss pertinent matters relative to better athletics in the Old Dominion and our adjoining sister State.

The conference, as we understand his letter, will be a discussion of the following vital questions:

Entrance requirements,
Scholarships,
Employment of Athletes and Methods of Compensating them,
Summer baseball,
One year residence rule,
Schedules and contracts.

If rules covering the foregoing matters are agreed to at a conference of the colleges of North Carolina and Virginia, it will be one of the best things ever happening to athletics in the two States. It would mean that all of the colleges, about a dozen in number, would be governed by the same rules regarding the major matters of eligibility and clean athletics. Read the news story of the proposed meeting and see what you think of it.

After seeing the game Friday night, we were more than ever impressed with the need for a men's gymnasium here at William and Mary. At least one of regulation size, with seating capacity for an audience of eight hundred people, is needed. The State has done well for the women, but what of the men students? They are the ones most in need of suitable athletic facilities.

A recent speaker at a Y. M. C. A. meeting asserted that smoking cigarettes was effeminate, and he strongly advised his male audience to stop smoking them for this reason. He suggested a pipe and tobacco for men. "What say you, are you guilty or not guilty?"

It is with much pleasure that we witnessed the placing of a sidewalk in front of Jefferson, and the beginning of a hedge along the James-town highway parallel with the building. Jefferson is the handsomest structure on the campus, and its surroundings should be of the best.

Have you contributed your greenback (singular) for the Mace Fund? If not, why not?

Freshman Contest Tomorrow Night

The annual Freshman Contest of the Phoenix and the Philomathean Literary Societies will be held in the college chapel Saturday, December 17. The freshmen of the Phoenix and the Philomathean societies will battle in the forensic arena with the silver-edged sword for the much coveted banner, which will be awarded to the society winning the highest number of points in the contest. The program will consist of debating, reading, declaiming and oration. The two literary societies ask that the students give them support next Saturday night by coming out to the contest. The program will be short and interesting.

CALLED HOME

Myree and Roland Hutchings have been called to their home in South Norfolk to be at the bedside of their father, who was severely, and perhaps, fatally injured recently.

The students and the Flat Hat staff send sympathy to our classmates, and wish for the speedy recovery of their father.

PHOTOGRAPHERS BUSY

Lake and Cheyne, of Newport News, proprietors of the Photo Shop in that city, have been busy for the past week making pictures for the Colonial Echo. With the photographic work for this year completed earlier than usual, it is probable that the annual will be gotten out by May.

During the life of the Eastern Virginia I. A. A., the Indians and Spiders usually completed their schedules before Turkey Day. In 1919, a third game between Indians and Spiders was played in Richmond on Thanksgiving. Last year Norfolk was the site, and the game was played early in the season.

It now appears that William and Mary and its greatest rival will clash every Thanksgiving in Richmond. If this policy is consummated, the game soon will develop into a contest that will attract great crowds.

Announcement that Hampden-Sidney is on the Indians' schedule is pleasing to students and alumni of both institutions. The Tigers were not played during the season just closed, owing to conflict of dates.

ALUMNI ASKED TO GIVE DOLLAR TO MACE FUND

graved names of forty-seven governors of Virginia in its upper part and the names of forty-two distinguished Colonial Virginians below. Beneath these another figure will appear nine enamels showing the British flag, the arms of Great Britain, the Virginia Colonial flag, the present Virginia coat of arms, the Continental flag, the Great Seal of the Confederacy, the Confederate battle flag, the American flag, and the arms of the United States. Around the base of this member will also appear the engraved names of the eleven Chancellors of the College, including George Washington. At an appropriate place will be engraved the names of four donors of scholarships prior to the Revolution and the names of the representatives of the College of William and Mary in the Assembly. Beneath this is another member, bearing six enamels, obverse and reverse, of the Flat Hat, the Botetourt, and the Phi Beta Kappa medals. Beneath this is another member bearing the engraved names of about thirty of the most eminent graduates of the College. Beneath this is a globe showing the New World. Beneath this is another member showing Indian heads and paraphernalia commemorative of the original Indian School of the College. Beneath this the staff with the names of the Presidents of the College, beginning with Commissary James Blair and concluding with that of our honored President J. A. C. Chandler.

It is difficult to realize from this bare statement, and without seeing the actual design which has been prepared by the Gorham Company, silver-smiths, of New York City, what a superb piece of work the mace will be.

The cost of the mace, including clerical expenses, will be $2400.00. The committee feels confident that each of our alumni will deem it a privilege to participate in the presentation of this unique gift to his Alma Mater; and the committee has only to submit the project to you to receive your unqualified support. Wishing to make the gift absolutely representative, the committee has decided to ask each of the alumni and student body for one dollar. In this connection you will be interested to know that the entire faculty and a large majority of the student body have already contributed towards the fund.

You will find herewith a stamped envelope addressed to Professor W. T. Hodges, Treasurer of the Mace Fund. "Obey that impulse." Place your dollar in the envelope and mail at once. A serially numbered receipt coupon will be mailed each contributor. The name of every contributor, in chronological order of contributions, will be recorded in the permanent Book of Donors to the Mace Fund, which will be exhibited with the mace itself.

The mace will be kept, during the day, in a specially constructed glass and bronze case in the library, in order that students and visitors may have full opportunity to see and study it. The committee believes that it will prove of incomparable value in bringing home to countless generations the full conception of the part the College of William and Mary has played in the life of the nation. No other College of the country has the body of material from which a similar record can be constructed.

The mace will be presented to the College February 8, 1922, on the occasion of the 229th anniversary of the formal granting of the Royal Charter. The committee hopes that you will arrange, if possible, to attend the ceremonies, to which the ambassadors of Great Britain and France will also be invited.

RIGHT FORMATION

The football game was over and at the parlor grate
A maid and long-haired youth were lingering rather late.
They talked of goals and touchdowns, but found it rather tame,
Till Cupid put his nose-guard on and butted in the game.
Quoth he, "It's mighty funny if I don't arrange a match."
So he lined the couple up, and made them toe the scratch.

The youth was growing nervous 'neath the weight of new-found bliss,
And he kinder thought the scrim-made ought to end up with a kiss.
He charged upon the center, he tackled left and right,
And the way they held that chair for downs was simply out of sight.
He tried an osculation, just an amateur affair,
But lost it on a fumble and instead it struck the air.

Then as he landed on his ear, he heard the maiden say,
"You're penalized for holding, Jim; likewise for offside play."
With set teeth he tried another; this time succeeded fine,
For he scored an easy touchdown on the crimson two-inch line.
And as they sat there by the grate, communing soul to soul,
The parlor door swung open and father kicked the goal.

—Widow.

LINES TO A MOUSTACHE TO BE SACRIFICED ON THE MORROW

Farewell, fond sprig!
May thy ghost sleep sweetly
As the dark porter sweeps
Thy scattered strands into oblivion;
For the last time I gaze
With pride and half-apology
On thy fine and tumbled ranks,—
Tomorrow shall my face be clean
And barren,—as it was when I got it;
Once I had fond hopes,
But thou has loitered,
And off must needs be shorn,
E'en though it breaks my heart:
Good-bye, little sprig,—
I loved thee!

—Collegiate World.

THE REAL STUDENT

You are content to toil and toil
Studying all night, until you spoil
Your eyesight, and, superbly rash,
You clean vile drains or sling vile hash
Day after day of summer weather
To keep body and soul together.

I wonder what you hope to gain
Here at the cost of so much pain?
Year follows year, and presently
If you can bear it, a degree
Rewards you for your sacrifice—
I wonder how that can suffice?
And how you view us, you who pay
So much for nothing every day?

—Collegiate World.

WHOM DO I LIKE?

Jim is very stupid,
Bill is very bright!
Jim always toddles,
Bill reads at night!
Jim likes Aphrodite,
Bill likes Rigoletto!
Jim has a hip-pocket,
And more at home.
Jim likes to "Stutz,"
Bill likes to walk!
Bill thinks Haig and Haig
Is the name of a Scottish town
And uses a prescription
Only when he is ill!

Mother likes Bill!
—Lehigh Burr.

JEREMIAD OF A PROFESSOR

Herein is my eternal sorrow:
Today, tomorrow
Endlessly until
The end of the year,
Ruthlessly you come to borrow
Bits of all I hold most dear
That you may fulfill
Your gluttony for academic credits.
—Collegiate World.

STUNG!

'Twas on a Yuletide sleigh-ride
As they glided o'er the land
That he softly called her sweetheart
As he held her little-raincoat.

He stroked her little raincoat,
How swift the evening flies!
His heart was filled with rapture,
As he gazed into her—lunchbasket.

He gazed into her lunchbasket,
And longed for just one taste;
There sat his little sweetheart
With his arms around her—umbrella.

He held her little umbrella—
What a lovely little Miss!
She laughed in pleased confusion
While he boldly stole a—sandwich.

FOR DINNER

"I'm so glad you've come. We're going to have a young married couple for dinner."
"I'm glad, too. They ought to be tender."
—Michigan Gargoyle.

THAT NOISE

"John, wake up. What's that noise down in the library?"
"Oh, never mind. Probably it's only history repeating itself."
—Siren.

WE WILL—NOT

"Let's go to the show tomorrow night."
"We're giving a house dance tomorrow night."
"All right, we'll go there then."
—Lemon Punch.

"Ohhhhh! Lemuel, vat you tink? I vas arrested for speedink today."
"Vat, you? Vy, you haf no car, haf you?"
"No, not that. Speedink on the sidewalk."
—Lemon Punch.

He: "Why do you give me the cold shoulder these days?"
She: "Well, now, Billy, it's your fault that it's cold."
—The Penn State Froth.

Y. W. Honors Mrs. Moulton At Tea

On last Saturday afternoon a tea was given in honor of Mrs. Moulton by the cabinet of the Y. W. C. A. We wish to thank her again for her kindness, her encouragement, her co-operation with us in some of our difficult problems that could not have possibly been overcome.

The last meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was conducted entirely by members of the Freshman Class. The subject under discussion was, "Am I a Story or a Dictionary?" The "Ducs" distinguished themselves nobly, in attendance as well as on the platform.

We are all looking forward to the last meeting before the holidays. It is to be a real Christmas service with candlelight, holly, Christmas Carols, a Christmas story, and possibly a tree.

The Social Committee is working on a Japanese tea to be given to all the girls before Christmas vacation. This is a new thing in the way of entertainment and that fact alone speaks for its success.

was unable to get away from Carter, right guard of the visiting club, who literally "sat" on Pierce. He held Chester in close embrace. The close guarding caused roughness at times. Inasmuch as the contest was the first played on the new, larger court by the Indians, they were off color in passing, and showed lack of condition, of course, having been out only two weeks.

The gallery was thronged, and spectators also witnessed the game from the sidelines.

wholly out of the question in the immediate future as there are no other nations which have important interests in the Far East except little Holland which is perfectly content to be left secure by the big nations in her possession of her Dutch East Indies.

The sense of the new treaty is "As you are." All Four Powers agree, as far as the Pacific Ocean is concerned, not to covet their neighbor's property and to guarantee one another security in their present territorial dispositions. We are to be guaranteed by mutual agreement in our position in the Philippines and Guama, and Japan in her possessions of Port Arthur, and the British of Hongkong.

Thus the plan is to put an end to worry, suspicion and intrigue which nourish international enmity. Canada and the United States have been living as neighbors on this basis for over a hundred years. Considering that the main object of the conference was supposed to be naval reduction, an agreement upon this treaty before naval reduction is accepted by other nations may seem peculiar. Our naval proposals, having given proof of our lack of aggressive aims, there has ensued a discussion of all the conflicting interests of the nations with a view to composing differences.

The treaty is the political ground work for the settlement of details of the Far Eastern problem and of naval reduction. China which has been the source of strife is to be free by the treaty from danger of further aggression on the part of any one of the Four Powers. Thus having agreed upon "As you are," without further exploitation of China at one another's expense, of attempting further territorial aggrandizement in any form, continuance of the present area of extravagant naval competition ceases to have an excuse, because no cause for war remains. Such seems the logic of the present procedure of the negotiations while we wait upon further developments.
